Who do you believe is responsible for wildfire risk reduction before, during, and after an event?

To reduce wildfire risk from our common area open space, we have a policy that allows homeowners, at their discretion, to mow a 5-foot fire break in the field grasses that abut the split-rail fence behind their home. To further reduce wildfire risk, the HOA is also looking at creating and maintain a mow strip around our entire fence line (5-10 feet in width), limbing trees in our common areas that are too close to other fuels, and removing some common area junipers that pose a high risk to homes. Would you endorse these actions?

To reduce risk to your own home and those of your neighbors, would you be willing to remove or cut back high risk evergreen trees and shrubs growing within a few feet of, and especially in contact with, your home?
